

Marxism and the Muslim World

Maxime Rodinson

Other Books in English by Maxime Rodinson

Israel and the Arabs (Harmondsworth: Penguin, 1968)

Mohammad (London: Allen Lane The Penguin Press, 1971)

Israel: A Colonial-Settler State? (New York: Monad Press, 1973)

Islam and Capitalism (Harmondsworth: Penguin, 1977)

Marxism and the Muslim World

Maxime Rodinson

Translated by Michael Pallis

The logo for Zed Press, featuring the word "Zed" in a stylized, cursive script font.

Zed Press, 57 Caledonian Road, London N1 9DN.

Marxism and the Muslim World was first published in French by Editions du Seuil in 1972, and in English – with a new Preface by the author – by Zed Press, 57 Caledonian Road, London N1 9DN in December 1979.

Copyright © Maxime Rodinson, 1972
Translation Copyright © Zed Press, 1979

ISBN 0 905762 21 5

Typed by Gill Bussell
Designed by Mayblin/Shaw
Typeset by Jenny Duley
Proofread by Penelope Fryxell and
Beverley Brown
Printed by Maple Vail, USA

Not for sale in North America

All rights reserved

Published and distributed in the Republic of India by Orient Longman Ltd., 3/5 Asaf Ali Road, New Delhi 110002.

Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
Author's Preface to the English Edition	1
1. Marxist Ideas and the Study of the Muslim World	5
What is Marxism?	5
What the Theses of Marxist Sociology Can Contribute to the Study of the Muslim World	8
A Marxist Answer to the Problem of Muslim Specificity	11
The Challenge of Marxist Ideology to Religions	13
2. Marxist Communism and Arab Nationalism Compared	19
Preliminary Definitions	19
The Formation of Ideologies	23
Conclusions	30
3. Relationships between Islam and Communism	34
The Problem Today	34
The Sociological Basis of the Problem	36
Definition of a Category	39
Pertinent Historical Variations Within the Two Movements	41
The Two Movements Face to Face	43
The Modalities of the Confrontation	45
Perspectives for the Future	55
Methods of Study	56
4. Problems Facing the Communist Parties in Syria and Egypt	60
The Syrian and Egyptian Communist Parties: Some Differences	61
The Decisive Choice	62
The Evolution towards Neutralism and the Communists' Role in Syria	64
The Influence of the Egyptian Communists	68
Pragmatism and Theorization	70
The Grand Alliance . . . and After?	72

5. Marxism and Arab Nationalism	76
Foundations and Development of Arab Nationalism	76
The Communist Attitude	84
Outline of A Marxist Critique	111
Arab Roads to Socialism	114
6. The Bolsheviks and Colonized Muslims	125
7. A Forgotten Precursor	133
Sultan Galiev	133
Lessons of a Forgotten History	136
Socialism and the National Question	137
A Precursor	138
8. Islam and the Modern Economic Revolution	142
Which Model of Modernization?	144
The Cultural Tradition and Modernization	146
Modernization and Cultural Originality	159
Conclusion	160
9. The Political Structure Under Nasser	163
The Ruling Group's Political Ideas	163
The Political Struggle for a Progressive Nationalist Orientation	166
'Rational' Power	174
Conclusion	184
10. Islam as a Political Factor in Egypt After Nasser	189
Some Preliminary Questions	189
Egypt's Options	190
The Nasserist Attitude	191
11. On the Contemporary Culture of the Muslim World	194
Intellectual Life in the Arab Countries	194
The Political Ideologies and their Elaboration	199
12. A Marxist Policy for the Arab Countries	204
The Tasks Facing Contemporary Arab Societies	204
The Organization of Effort	214
The Ideology	220
The Organization of Stimulation	222
Index	225
Bibliographical Information	229