

THE PEOPLES OF THE USSR
An Ethnographic Handbook

Ronald Wixman

M
MACMILLAN PRESS
LONDON

Macmillan Reference Books

© M. E. Sharpe, Inc. 1984

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted, in any form or by any means, without permission

First published in the United Kingdom 1984 by
THE MACMILLAN PRESS LTD
London and Basingstoke
Associated Companies
throughout the world

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data

Wixman, Ronald

The peoples of the USSR.

1. Ethnology—Soviet Union

I. Title

947.084'2 DK33

ISBN 0-333-36981-5

Printed in the USA by
MALLOY LITHOGRAPHING, INC.
Ann Arbor, Michigan

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Preface	ix
Introduction	xi
A Note on Sources	xvi
List of Abbreviations	xviii
The Peoples of the USSR	1
List of Maps	229
Map Index	230
About the Author	246

Acknowledgments

I would like to express my gratitude to a number of people who helped in the preparation of this book. Without the suggestion of Paul Goble the book might never have been conceived. It was his idea that my original research, which centered solely on the North Caucasus, should be expanded to include all of the peoples of the USSR and be made widely available to scholars.

I would also like to thank Douglas Michael Leander, who helped in the compilation, alphabetizing, and cross-referencing of all entries. Very special thanks go to Stephen Reynolds for his information on the Baltic and Western Finnic peoples and on the religions of many of the peoples of the USSR. He also inserted the diacritical marks in the text by hand. In addition to all this, his numerous and valuable suggestions regarding style and format greatly facilitated the actual preparation of this work.

I am grateful to Marjorie Mandelstam Balzer for her editorial comments and for providing me with a great deal of information on the people of Siberia. Her contribution certainly increased the value and usefulness of this reference book. I would also like to express my gratitude to my editor, Patricia Kolb, for her suggestions and her patience, and for her help in the eventual publication of the text.

All cartographic work was prepared by my close friend Frederick Wilson, and I owe him special thanks for his personal support during the difficult period during which this book was completed. Similar thanks go to my very dear friends James L. Hardcastle, Todd A. Asay, Kenton Kullby, and Norman P. Frantzen. I could never overstate the importance of their support and encouragement.

My deepest appreciation also goes to Mary Alice Stander for the numerous hours of work she put in editing the many copies and versions of this text. Her constant support and encouragement were at least as important in the completion of this work as her technical help.

Most of all I want to thank the one responsible for my becoming a professor. No words can express the great debt of gratitude I owe to Stephen Lee Glaser, "the best friend of my childhood years." Without him and his special concern, patience, and encouragement I would never have gone to college or graduate school. He was not only my friend, but also my mentor. It is to him that I dedicate this book.