
CENTRAL ASIAN SURVEY

Volume 1 Number 4
April 1983

Contents

From the Editor: Why Geidar Aliev?	1
ARTICLES
Soviet Water Diversion Plans: Implications for Kazakhstan and Central Asia Philip P. Micklin	9
The Religion of the Central Caucasus: An Analysis from 19th Century Travellers' Accounts Mary L. Henze	45
CHRONICLES
Shake-up in the Uzbek Literary Elite John Soper	59
The Soviets in Afghanistan: The Anatomy of a Takeover Marie Broxup	83
JADIDS
Abdul Kayum Al-Nasyri: A Tatar Reformer of the 19th Century Chantal Lemercier-Quelquejey	109
DOCUMENTS
A Valley Against an Empire Jerome Bony and Christophe de Ponfilly	133
Eastern Turkestan After 32 Years Erkin Alptekin	149

Book Reviews 155

Correspondence 159

List of Contributors 164

Notes for contributors can be found at the back of the journal.

ARTICLES

167 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics
175 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics
183 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics

CHRONICLES

187 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics
195 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics
203 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics

LETTERS

211 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics
219 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics

DOCUMENTS

223 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics
231 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics
239 The Role of the Soviet Union in the Development of the Central Asian Republics